By Mark Schroeder : Noncognitivism in Ethics (New Problems of Philosophy) ethics involves systematizing defending and recommending concepts of right and wrong behavior a central aspect of ethics is quot;the good lifequot; the life worth living atheism the term atheist describes a person who does not believe that god or a divine being exists worldwide there may be as many as a billion atheists Noncognitivism in Ethics (New Problems of Philosophy):

According to noncognitivists when we say that stealing is wrong what we are doing is more like venting our feelings about stealing or encouraging one another not to steal than like stating facts about morality These ideas challenge the core not only of much thinking about morality and metaethics but also of much philosophical thought about language and meaning Noncognitivism in Ethics is an outstanding introduction to these theories rang Noncognitivism in Ethics is the best introduction to noncognitivism and to the complex philosophical issues it generates that I have seen It is written with teaching in mind While the discussion is advanced enough to maintain the interest
