Frithjof Schun):

5 of 8 review helpful a personal favorite By k wolf Frithjof Schuon is simultaneously the greatest and most frustrating writer I have ever encountered Greatest because stylistically he is unsurpassed by anyone in the field he writes in which perhaps is best called comparative religion It takes a considerable background in this area to be able to read him as he should be read for he is a writer who never talks down to h In this new edition of his powerfully original work Schuon covers an array of metaphysical cosmological and anthropological subjects In the book s signature essay entitled To Have a Center the author surveys the ambiguous phenomenon of modern genius showing how Western humanistic society has replaced the time honored veneration of the saint and the hero with the cult of individualistic genius In ldquo Translated from the French this collection of essays on the philosophy of religion reflects the author s search for a sense of the spiritual in all of human life This is a very challenging and scholarly work for all seeking the Sophia Perennis
